

Contestant #2

I have done numerous tasks in life that have impacted others, but the thing that impacts me the most is being a role model. I have two younger sisters and a younger cousin. Being the oldest out of the four of us has its challenges and its rewards. One of the most precious rewards is being someone that my sisters and cousin can always look up to and confide in. I love it when they ask me for advice or do something as simple as dressing like me. The little things like these make me happy because it shows that I am succeeding as an older sister, older cousin, and most importantly, a role model.

I also have the privilege of being a teacher assistant at my dance studio. I get to be an example to the young girls. I help them understand choreography, learn new tricks, and mentor them in treating each other with kindness. This can sometimes be a hard job, but it is very rewarding. The best part is when the girls get excited to show me the new trick that I had taught them in the previous weeks and when they hug me after not seeing me for a while. Even though it's only a new trick, it is also a way that I have impacted their lives and I cherish that feeling of accomplishment. No matter if it is my sister, my cousin, or a young girl at my dance studio, I'm happy to be a part of their lives in a positive light!
